DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Scott et al. (US Patent No. 3,521,413).

Scott et al. discloses a connector assembly comprising of a shank including a head end (28) and an anchor end (12); a head operatively coupled to said shank, said head including a trim retaining end (24), a shank engaging end (30), and a break neck (32) therebetween, wherein said trim retaining end breaks from said head at said break neck when a load is applied to said head. Scott et al. further discloses that said shank includes a threaded chamber extending between said head end and said anchor end and where a screw (20) is threadedly inserted in said chamber. Also, Scott et al. discloses that said head includes an upper disc (44) and a lower disc (36), and wherein said trim panel includes at least one boss (22) for receiving said upper disc while said lower disc abuts a lower surface of said boss.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Scott et al. in view of Frischmann et al. (US Patent No. 6,676,346).

Scott et al. discloses a shank, but without a bulbous portion that expands radially outward when said screw is received in said chamber.

Art Unit: 3677

Frischmann et al. teaches of a bulbous portion (3) of a connector assembly that expands radially outward when a screw is received in its chamber.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have included the bulbous portion in Scott et al. in view of Frischmann et al. in order to further secure the shank to its base.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 7 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 3/8/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claim 1, Applicant argues that the Scott et al. (hereinafter "Scott") patent does not meet the limitation of a head that is "adapted to non-frangibly detach from said shank." Examiner disagrees since it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Applicants recitation of "adapted to" constitutes an intended use of the apparatus.

Regarding claim 5, Applicant argues that though the references can be combined does not render the resultant combination obvious unless the prior art suggests the desirability of the combination. However, Examiner reminds Applicant that there is no requirement that a motivation to make the modification be expressly articulated. The test for combining references is what the combination of disclosures taken as a whole would suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art. References are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures. Further, Applicant argues Frischmann does not suggest or teach the breakaway element. However, this is a manner of arguing the references separately rather than together. Frishmann is not relied upon to teach the breakaway element. Rather, Scott discloses the breakaway element.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
